Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from What Californians Want: Read the Opinions of Your Fellow Citizens and Neighbors Regarding the Preservation of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific System for the Use of the People of the Pacific Coast, and the Facts on Which These Opinions Are Based Two months ago, a single organization - the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce - was on record urging the Interstate Commerce Commission to continue the operation of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific System as a unit, in the face of threatened dismemberment as a result of a suit brought in 1914 under the Sherman Act. A Tremendous Protest Today, more than 300 organizations, representing at least 90 per cent of the agricultural and commercial shippers of California, and a large number of similar organizations in Oregon, Nevada and Arizona, have banded themselves together under the leadership of statewide committees or otherwise, to preserve for the Western Slope its great unified trunk-line system reaching from Portland, Ore., to and below the Mexican border, without interruption in management or service. It is doubtful if any such outpouring of public sentiment ever has been witnessed under like circumstances, and it is hoped that you, too, will find it possible to lend your influence in making clear to the Interstate Commerce Commission at its approaching hearing on this subject, the real meaning of the public interest in this State and on the Pacific Coast, if you have not already done so. The Issue The question at issue very simple, despite many attempts, financed from outside, to make it appear otherwise. It is this: Do the people of California, Oregon, Nevada and Arizona believe they will be better off if the...
