This represents me as writing nonsense - for do I not speak distinctly against letting it pass through a hole or grate in the floor? and surely this would be near or through the floor. The principle that I want to establish is, that the flues or pipes by which the heated air passes off from the heat-chamber, into the apartment to be warmed, in whatever direction they be carried under and through the floor, should not terminate there, but pass above the floor, and there have a horizontal direction, (or parallel with the floor) to some extent, before they terminate. What specific length this horizontal branch should have, it would require many experiments...
