If it is found that the natural reproduction by seed is not sufficient to supply standard trees for the next rotation, the species chosen for standard trees must be artificially cultivated by means of transplants. CHAPTER III. Treatment Of Forests And Single Trees. Definition. Definition. We promote and guide the growth of forests and single trees by means of stopping, thinning and pruning. This is called Treatment of Forests. Promotion of the groivth of young forests by establishing a close groivth, otherwise called stopping. Promotion of I mentioned in the preceding: chapter that a tbe growth of. x i youiiK forests by reproduced forest must be made to close overhead close growth, as rapidly as possible, the branches must touch each stopping. c other, and the soil underneath must be in perpetual shade. If the young forest does not close within a short time, weeds spring up, the soil loses its nourishing power, and if it has been originally of an inferior quality, the young forest will waste away (see Tera Plantation). If this has occurred, the cultivation of corn, potatoes, or cotton between the sickening trees will have a beneficial effect on them, provided the soil be clear and not overgrown with weeds. A small quantity of earth is heaped round the stock of the ailing trees, and if...
